++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers quickly developing, becoming locally heavy and thundery.

Today:
Sunny spells, especially at first across Norfolk, but wet start across Suffolk. Rain turning showery with heavy showers developing across most parts by afternoon, possibly with hail and thunder, although some places may remain dry. Temperatures close to average. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Tonight:
Scattered heavy, sometimes thundery, showers at first. Overnight remaining breezy, with often large amounts of cloud but also clear spells developing, as the showers become isolated and generally lighter. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Sunday:
Sunny spells and scattered showers again, but with a slightly lower chance of catching heavy and thundery showers, especially later in the day. Temperatures close to average. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Showers or longer spells of rain Monday, locally heavy and sometimes thundery. Tuesday scattered showers, but lighter than previously. Wednesday dry, bright or sunny spells and possibly rather warm.
